Sakata Industrie's private mercenary unit.

The group is tasked with abducting and executing soldiers and defending facilities in accordance with the PS Plan, and skillful veteran mercenaries were assembled against the backdrop of enormous funds.

The best among them were given code names such as "X-01" and were called "Numbers. The higher the number, the higher the rank.

Driscoll of the Nirvana Agency is also named as an "X-06 Raven".

Most of the Numbers are regular WAP pilots who have not been brainwashed by the PS Plan, but Faithless, Sana, and Rage are used as experimental subjects, each given a code name.

Regarding the origin of the name "Vampires," Rich says it is a pun: "They grew from BATS (bats) to vampires.

The relationship between war merit and number is from Willem's line in 2089-II, "If you capture six aircraft, your number will be raised. This is a statement typical of Willem, who is at the bottom of the list, hoping to somehow improve his ranking.

boarding aircraft

The WAPs that Numbers boards are uniformly painted jet black.

Based on an existing product, it is tuned to the skills of the pilot. For example, the front armor of a close-in machine is increased by 20%, while the back is reduced by 40%, thus making it specialized and lightweight.

It also incorporates a self-destruct mechanism (eraser) for the purpose of maintaining confidentiality. When the aircraft becomes inoperable, a chemical reaction of the explosive liquid is initiated and detonated.

Progress (2089)

After the engagement with the Lankan contingent, the conflict with the Storm contingent became more pronounced.

Despite the Vampires' connections to the upper echelons of the military and their relative advantage in information warfare, they had not been successful in their battle with the Storm Squad, so Ogre and others targeted Arena Rankers to secure experimental subjects.

It is said that only the Storm team is said to have engaged the Numbers and survived.

Roy, a C.I.S.U. investigator, had been working undercover on a mission to secure evidence linking the military and corporations involved with the Vampires, and had reported inside information to Faithless and others. Meanwhile, Rich also seemed to be getting information from what was going on by letting Roy swim around.

The results of Roy's research were passed on to the Storm team through the journal of the faceless, and it is from this journal that the identity of the vampires is first learned.

Later, when our client Sakata Industrie moved to the B.D. plan? In addition, after the C.I.S.U. began its investigation, the Vampires lost their numbers and bases one after another, and their activities continued to shrink.

Rich was thinking of selling himself to Sakata Industries, Inc. by offering X-00, the result of his research, and the kidnapped experimental subject candidates. However, due to the onslaught from C.I.S.U., the organization was destroyed at the end of 2089? The organization was destroyed by the onslaught from C.I.S.U. at the end of 2089?

Information was picked up from the mobile versions of 2089 and 2089-II and from 2089 Border of Madness (BoM) on DS.

The main thrust of the story prioritizes the scenarios and settings of BoM and 2089-II, and also references data from 2089 for those items that are consistent with the content of BoM, a reconstructed version of 2089.

Also, since the story and setting of 2089 has been overwritten by the BoM, the usefulness of the lancer

He is the commander of a mercenary unit of the O.C.U. Army Defense Force, 1st Army Mechanized Division, Border Maintenance Unit. Before coming to Huffman Island, he was a mercenary in other war zones.

In the early summer of 2089, he was attacked by the Vampires and abducted along with five members of the squad. The members were taken hostage and forced to serve with the squad as Dragoon of Numbers. During an engagement between the Storm Squad and the Vampires, he had the opportunity to escape from the organization, but was killed in an explosion caused by the activation of an eraser (a self-destruct device used to kill defectors) equipped with a WAP.
